PROMOTIONS

I was promoted to supervisor, the first female in Los Angeles promoted to the dock as a dock supervisor. Only males had been promoted to work outside on the dock and supervised males. At that time, there were no females, um, assigned to work on the docks, load and unload trucks, and to load and unload our cars that go to the airplanes to put the mail on the airplanes. And, I was told that there was opposition to my getting that position. But I had someone, um, who fought for the fact that I had earned the right to do that.
